Dread of the December 1st Money Settlements No Longer Worries Wall Street.

SOME LIQUIDATION IN THE GOULD GROUP.

which lie back of the action of the stock market were rather more easily discerned today than usual. The halting, irregular movement of the market was quite plainly the reflection of the dread that the exigencies of the December 1st money settiements would bring out some forced li-quidation of the kind which has come on quidation of the kind which has come on the market from time to time since the financial condition began to mend. There was, in fact, evidence of such liquidation at one or two points, notably in the Gould group, with effect in Missouri Pacific and Western Union. The buoyant tone which developed later was evidently due to the conviction that the December settlements were not to entail serious burdens on the were not to entail serious burdens on the

The scarcity of stocks except when son The scarcity of stocks except when some special supply was forced out of a loan has been a conspicuous feature of the market for some time past. The professional operators have been keenly alert to this state of affairs, but cautious against a premature attempt to take advantage of it or to attempt to mark up prices in face of further liquidation that must be accomplished. Holders of stocks are clearly determined not to sell them at are clearly determined not to sell them a the present unprofitable level except as they may be obliged to do so by the maturing of money obligations on which ex-tensions are refused. With the lifting of that kind of pressure today it was found easy to bid up prices rapidly with the ab-sorption of comparatively light supplies of stock on the way up.

of stock on the way up.

The same process is going on in the bond market. In that department, even more than in stocks, low quotations have been made on the forced marketing of small blocks of bonds in some cases, thus offering no adequate representation of value placed on the security by the bulk of its holders. The recovery in such cases represents a price readjustment rather than a response to a demand which would be required to remove from an ordinary level. The movement today did reflect some degree of the special demand flect some degree of the special demand from the preparation for the December settlements, but this was so moderate that settlements, but this was so moderate that it was accepted as a favorable development. As the day progressed, call loans touched 14 per cent. The time money market also, while still very narrow, indicated no such deadlock as has been the rule since the financial crisis. Today was practically the last day of the month at the stock exchange, as loans made on Friday carry over until Monday so that the greatest strain of the preparation would be counted upon being met today.

The developments over the Thanksgiving holiday were given favorable interpretation. The decision to discontinue the ing holiday were given favorable interpretation. The decision to discontinue the offer of the United States treasury 3 per cent certificates was accepted as testimony that the need for this emergency measure was considered to decline and is the market was unchanged, with No. 1 measure was considered to decline and is expected to disappear as soon as the end of the month payroll needs are met. There was an accumulation of testimony from bankers throughout the country of the readness to resume cash payments.

The local banking situation was known to be improving fast alth. LIVESTOCK MARKETS.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS. Chicago, Nov. 29.-The wheat market opened weak owing chiefly to a decline of id at Liverpool. Liberal receipts in the northwest, however, were of considerable bearish influence early in the session. Selling by commission houses and pit traders was general. The greater part of the offerings were taken by a leading commission house which were supposed to be covering shorts. After the first hours, trade became amazingly dull and the commission house which were supposed to be covering shorts. After the first hours, trade became amazingly dull and the market failed to show any recuperative power. The weekly review of a St. Louis trade journal containing optimistic reports of the newly sown winter wheat crop was an important factor in the latter part of the day. The market closed weak. May opened %24c to %21c lower at $1.02% and closed at $1.02% and $1.02%, sold between $1.02 and $1.02%, and closed at $1.024@1.02%, December ranged between 944 and 954c, and closed at $5c. Excellent weather for marketing of the new crop of corn was responsible, in a large degree, for the weakness which prevailed in the corn pit throughout the session. The break in wheat and a moderate decline at Liverpool were additional bearish influences. The volume of trade was small. The close was weak. May opened 3c to 3c lower at 55@55%c, sold off to 54°c, and closed at 55c. December ranged between 54c and 54%c, and closed at 544c.
